Disclaimer

The route notes have been compiled to aid safe passage over the rally route and in purchasing them I accept unreservedly the terms on which the route notes are offered. I acknowledge that I should use them in conjunction with information provided by the organisers and understand that I need to familiarise myself with them before the event, check that there are no missing pages and that have been collated in the correct order.

I understand that I am purchasing subjective route notes that describe the characteristics of the road and in no way do they infer as to how fast to drive. I appreciate that every care has been taken to describe the bends and any hazards accurately, that operational activity on the roads prior to event and the conditions during the event may mean that the definition of bends and hazards in notes may change prior to my passage over the road.

I accept that it is a condition of acquiring and using the notes that, in the event of an accident or injury arising from an incident occurring whilst these notes were being used on the event that there is no liability whatsoever attached to the authors or the organising club. I also agree not to photocopy the route notes or copy the safety DVD and further accept that I should not amend the route notes based on viewing the safety DVD or my previous experiences.
